

Prof. Dr. Eugen Borcoci

Eugen Borcoci Ph.D is professor at National University of Science and Technology POLITEHNICA Bucharest (NUSTPB), Electronics, Telecommunications and Information Technology Faculty, Telecommunications Department, (www.telecom.pub.ro). His expertise, teaching and research activities have been oriented to specific domains of telecommunications and computer integrated networks architectures, technologies and services, such as: communication protocols, orchestration/management/control/data plane, quality assurance over multiple domains networks, etc. His current research activities and interest are in new technologies like 5G, 6G, SDN, NFV, ML, UAV, V2X. He has published 5 books, 4 textbooks and over 200 scientific or technical papers and scientific reports. He has been UPB team leader and research member in many European and national research projects. He contributed as a scientific reviewer and technical committee member to several national and international scientific conferences and journals in the field. Eugen Borcoci is life member of IEEE Communication Society, Computer Society, member of the Technical Sciences Academy of Romania and IARIA fellow. He obtained several national awards for research activities in the fields mentioned above.

May 10th, 2025

